SECTION – A

(Reading)

Read the following passage carefully :

Women in India have multiple role and responsibilities to play. In the West, women are mostly employed in one or the other job and work there with complete devotion. But in India, women are to play traditional roles along with their married life. To save themselves from the domestic drudgery, they prefer to take up some jobs. We have four categories of working women in this context. Some of them do their jobs only for the sake of lucrative match while others work as they are qualified and want a second income to lead a different kind of life.

A small section of them are among the career women. Some are bread winners, but the majority of women in the family prefer to take up jobs. These women prefer to stay in the joint families where their children can be looked after while they are at a work. When they return after their work, they adjust according to the demands of time and other family members.

These women do their shopping on the way from office. Weekends are generally reserved for heavy house work. They even like to spend their precious time with their spouses and children doing other family duties, visits and such endless chores. Thus they hardly find any time for their personal needs. Being all this, working women leave all the financial decisions to their husbands. They are not unduly fashion conscious but take pride in graceful clothing. Thus the Indian working women are managing their double roles admirably.

1. Based on your understanding of the passage, write True or False. 3 × 1 = 3
- (i) Women in the West are to play traditional roles.
 - (ii) A large section of women are among the career women.
 - (iii) Working women like to spend their time with their family members.
2. Answer the following questions in one word : 3 × 1 = 3
- (i) How many roles do the Indian women have to play ?
 - (ii) Why do the working women prefer to stay in joint family ?
 - (iii) What does the jobber women take pride in ?
3. Choose a word from the passage which means 'hard and uninteresting work' : 1 × 1 = 1
- (A) responsibilities (B) reserved
- (C) lucrative (D) drudgery

SECTION – A
(Reading)

Read the following passage carefully and answer the questions that follow :

“The most obvious way to avoid examination is to be prepared” is an oft-repeated advice from the experienced elders. They ignore two facts : first, the most stressed students are the highest achievers who set unrealistic goals for themselves; second, asking students to relax is easier said than done.

“Is there no way to calm the frazzled nerves that seem to accompany examinations and the resultant exam blues ?” ask the anxious students. Well, there are no pulls, quick-fix methods or sure-shot ways to combat stress. However, certain steps, if followed properly, can yield the desired results.

You must discuss your anxiety and stress with family and friends. When you express a feeling or emotion, its intensity automatically goes down, making it easier for you to cope.

Usually, anxiety sets off a chain reaction where students imagine what would happen if they don't get good marks, which adds to their nervousness. Psychologists advise that you should distract yourself by talking to a friend, going for a run, or watching television as soon as these thoughts begin.

Studying long hours at a stretch does not translate into being well prepared for exams. Non-stop studying brings down muscular and mental tension. It stabilizes the biochemical response of the body by controlling hormonal secretions induced by anxiety. You can do breathing exercises just before you begin a paper and start writing. It'll help focus your thoughts better and prevent panic attacks.

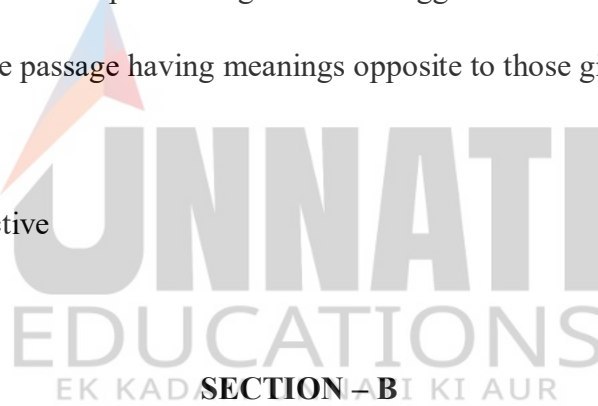

You must have a high carbohydrate – low fat diet. Fats in the diet make the body sluggish while caffeine makes it high stung, so it's best to consume a high carbohydrate diet, while limiting the tea and coffee intake to not more than three cups a day.

These tips should help you make it through the most trauma of answering papers.

- Sanchita Sharma (adapted)

(Reading)

Read the following passage carefully and answer the questions that follow :

“The most obvious way to avoid examination is to be prepared” is an oft-repeated advice from the experienced elders. They ignore two facts : first, the most stressed students are the highest achievers who set unrealistic goals for themselves; second, asking students to relax is easier said than done.

“Is there no way to calm the frazzled nerves that seem to accompany examinations and the resultant exam blues ?” ask the anxious students. Well, there are no pulls, quick-fix methods or sure-shot ways to combat stress. However, certain steps, if followed properly, can yield the desired results.

You must discuss your anxiety and stress with family and friends. When you express a feeling or emotion, its intensity automatically goes down, making it easier for you to cope.

Usually, anxiety sets off a chain reaction where students imagine what would happen if they don't get good marks, which adds to their nervousness. Psychologists advise that you should distract yourself by talking to a friend, going for a run, or watching television as soon as these thoughts begin.

Studying long hours at a stretch does not translate into being well prepared for exams. Non-stop studying brings down muscular and mental tension. It stabilizes the biochemical response of the body by controlling hormonal secretions induced by anxiety. You can do breathing exercises just before you begin a paper and start writing. It'll help focus your thoughts better and prevent panic attacks.

You must have a high carbohydrate – low fat diet. Fats in the diet make the body sluggish while caffeine makes it high stung, so it's best to consume a high carbohydrate diet, while limiting the tea and coffee intake to not more than three cups a day.

These tips should help you make it through the most trauma of answering papers.

(Reading)

Read the following passage carefully :

Women in India have multiple role and responsibilities to play. In the West, women are mostly employed in one or the other job and work there with complete devotion. But in India, women are to play traditional roles along with their married life. To save themselves from the domestic drudgery, they prefer to take up some jobs. We have four categories of working women in this context. Some of them do their jobs only for the sake of lucrative match while others work as they are qualified and want a second income to lead a different kind of life.

A small section of them are among the career women. Some are bread winners, but the majority of women in the family prefer to take up jobs. These women prefer to stay in the joint families where their children can be looked after while they are at a work. When they return after their work, they adjust according to the demands of time and other family members.

These women do their shopping on the way from office. Weekends are generally reserved for heavy house work. They even like to spend their precious time with their spouses and children doing other family duties, visits and such endless chores. Thus they hardly find any time for their personal needs. Being all this, working women leave all the financial decisions to their husbands. They are not unduly fashion conscious but take pride in graceful clothing. Thus the Indian working women are managing their double roles admirably.

1. Choose a word from the passage which means 'hard and uninteresting work' : $1 \times 1 = 1$
- (A) responsibilities (B) reserved
(C) lucrative (D) drudgery
2. Based on your understanding of the passage, write True or False. $3 \times 1 = 3$
- (i) Women in the West are to play traditional roles.
(ii) A large section of women are among the career women.
(iii) Working women like to spend their time with their family members.
3. Answer the following questions in one word : $3 \times 1 = 3$
- (i) How many roles do the Indian women have to play ?
(ii) Why do the working women prefer to stay in joint family ?
(iii) What does the jobber women take pride in ?
